DETAILED ACTION

The affidavit under 37 CFR 1.132 filed 1/23/08 is sufficient to overcome the rejection of the claims based upon the 112 first paragraph rejection for new matter regarding the use of the claimed means for switching to a DDD pacing mode since the original specification as filed used "to avoid inappropriate switch out of operating in a conventional DDD mode". The specification has been amended to reflect the correct translation. In addition, the translation was checked by a translator at the USPTO. Although, a new 112 first paragraph rejection has been made due to the new amendment to the specification.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The subject matter which was not described in the original specification is the "means for preventing switching to a DDD pacing mode when a condition indicative of a suspected loss of atrial detection is detected" and corresponding method step of "in order to prevent inappropriate switching to a DDD pacing mode" in combination with the other elements or steps in the claim(s). The original specification on pages 2 and 3 only described the device equipped with an automatic mode commutation operation. Nowhere does the specification describe a "means for preventing switching to a DDD pacing mode..." and "...when a condition indicative of a suspected loss of atrial detection is detected”. The specification states that the “detection and correction of the defects of atrial capture or atrial under-detection are employed to avoid an inappropriate switching to operating in a conventional DDD operating mode” but the specification did not originally state that there is some element or step used to prevent switching to a DDD pacing mode AND/OR used to prevent the switching WHEN a condition indicative of a suspected loss of atrial detection is detected. This rejection is related to new matter.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection necessitated by amendment. The specification as filed and relied on by the Examiner did not contain a correct translation and therefore a 112 first paragraph rejection was made regarding the claim language of “...switching to a DDD mode...” since this could not be found in the original specification. Due to the correction of the specification by amendment, a new 112 first paragraph rejection has been made (above).

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37

Art Unit: 3762

CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
